Australian Health Officials Reject 3rd COVID Booster for All Ages

Australian health officials said they will not make any changes to their existing recommendations for COVID-19 boosters — meaning they won't recommend a third booster (fifth dose) for any age group, despite rising case and hospitalization numbers.

Australian health officials said they will not make any changes to their existing recommendations for COVID-19 boosters — meaning they won't recommend a third booster (fifth dose) for any age group, despite rising case and hospitalization numbers.

In a press conference today, Health Minister Mark Butler said the Australian Technical Advisory Group on Immunization (ATAGI) largely based its decision on evidence from a recent COVID-19 wave in Singapore, where severe disease and death were rare among people who received at least two vaccine doses.

Butler noted that cases in Australia have risen 47% in the last week, but remain 85% below the previous peak in July. He added that "any reduction in transmission by adding a fifth dose to the system would, in their [ATAGI's] words, likely be minimal."

ATAGI Chief Medical Officer Paul Kelly supported the decision, stating the Singapore case suggested the current wave would peak quickly and then cases would drop off.

But according to Dr. Robert W. Malone, Australian health officials failed to mention the extensive data demonstrating that recovery of unvaccinated patients following COVID-19 infection "confers superior, long-lasting protection from disease and death," making it likely that those with "natural immunity" will also continue to be protected.

Australian health officials also didn't address data showing that recipients of multiple mRNA COVID-19 booster vaccines account for the vast majority of hospitalizations and deaths associated with COVID-19 infections, Malone said.

Malone told The Defender:

> "A reasonable conclusion from all of this is that, despite widespread promotion of COVID fearporn by corporate media, the currently circulating Omicron variants are not a major public health threat based on recent data from Singapore's experience with these variants, and the side effect risks of additional boosting overwhelmingly outweigh the disease risks of the currently circulating variants."

Also today, ATAGI approved the Pfizer bivalent vaccine for use as an alternative to any existing mRNA COVID-19 vaccines for people ages 18 and up.

Does the recommendation indicate a shifting strategy?

Dr. Lucas de Toca, head of the federal Department of Health's primary care response to COVID-19, said in a Senate estimates hearing last week that although ATAGI continues to review evidence and trends related to vaccine approval, the technical advisory group is focusing on increasing vaccine coverage among groups eligible for existing boosters.

ATAGI member Allen Cheng, Ph.D., also acknowledged that the risk of myocarditis and the lack of benefit from additional boosters meant that the recommended vaccine schedule for younger people is unlikely to change.

"Vaccinations are beneficial and protective even for younger people but the more doses you get the less benefit you derive from them and then we start to worry about causing side effects," Cheng said.

In the hearing, Kelly recognized the existence of strong "hybrid immunity" from previous infection and vaccination. He emphasized that vulnerable people ought to seek out antivirals quickly if they test positive.

ATAGI members continued to recommend that vulnerable people be up-to-date on vaccinations.

Throughout the COVID-19 pandemic, Australia imposed some of the most draconian restrictions on its population.

The country does continue to invest heavily in building a global biosecurity apparatus. On Monday, Australia pledged $50 million dollars to the World Bank's new global Pandemic Fund.

No one in China is taking the mRNA injections. Yet, we have forced it upon 99% of our military, healthcare workers, teachers, police and many other people. As the western populations slowly succumb to the cardiovascular issues, cancers and autoimmune problems the die off will be unprecedented. China, already the world's manufacturing powerhouse thanks to the coordinated off-shoring of jobs by the greedy multinational corporations, will be poised to take over the world and install their totalitarian ways on what remains of humanity. Western elites and political leaders who have been undermining their own countries will likely get rewarded for their cooperation.

No one knows what is going to happen in the future. Granted, the Chines government would like to be the controlling country of the world, but change can happen in an instant. There are millions of people who did not get the mRNA vaccinations, and we do still have choices and a voice. So, I am fully counting on our own power to change the world!!

I thank the makers of the movie VAXXED!, RFK jnr and the Children's Health Defense site for waking me up to this years ago over the rise in Autism in children, well before the mRna vaccines arrived. When I think of all the threatening crap these truth tellers had to endure then, I am so in awe of their courage.

CDC- their numbers (this is early 2021 data and NOT omicron):

Age Group – 0-19 Fatality – 0.00003%. Survival – 99.997%; statistically none

Ages 20-40 Fatality – 0.0002% – Survival 99.98%;

Ages 50-69 Fatality – 0.005% – Survival 99.5%;

Ages 70 + .0.054%. Survival 94.6% This is the so-called vulnerable group – which is worse ? The shot or the virus?

This is not about COVID!
Shot Killed A Lot Of Elderly People Also!

I've had something 3 times since Dec. 2020. What, I don't know as never did the nose rape or asked a hospital or MD for help. I'm 68 and still kicking. I did the Zelenko protocol and also many homeopathic remedies to treat the symptoms. Just getting over the 3rd round which by symptoms seems to be that RSV AKA common cold! OMG! I have been sick! I got the seasonal flu Surely the sky is falling and I need a useless jab to save me. NO THANKS! Instead? I just enjoyed some extra nap time. Sorry pharma, i'll keep my cash.

And they 'banned' the two most effective and cheapest anti-virals and they have had to invent a new 'death category' they have termed SADS for adults to differ from SIDS. Both being vaccine induced on many occasions.

And the COVID vax is not a Vaccine. It isd a gene altering drug. The corrupt alphabet agencies allowed the redefinition of a vaccine to delete the need to prevent the disease and its spread. They knew the vax would not protect anyone. It wasn't meant to.

"According to data from New Zealand"
The government there, for example, children who were vaccinated between the ages of 10 and 19, were ''more likely (not less likely) more likely to die within a month of vaccination'' than those who didn't take the vaccine in the same age group and it's not just the New Zealand government that has found this. This summer, a Dutch researcher called André Redert published a paper entitled "COVID-19 Vaccinations and all-cause mortality."

''The research analyzed hundreds of cities and towns. What did it find?''

It just may be that the Australian officials are beginning to fear possible criminal charges. By not recommending a fifth dose of poison and even mentioning side effects could be an indication that they are loosening the shackles Bill Gates and Big Pharma have put on them.

Freedom, schmeedom.

Medical freedom rarely gets any press, even on the Defender. The implication of always arguing about vaccine efficacy is... if the vaccines work, then medical freedom can be taken away.

Efficacy is irrelevant to choice!

We should have the freedom to choose the jab or not, absent of financial coercion.

There is only one, and literally ONLY ONE persuasive argument for coercion, and that is... If they could prove vaccines prevent transmission. Then maybe there is some grounds for some private company or government coercion. But right now they have ZERO grounds for any coercion whatsoever.

The global surveillance infrastructure, and coercive policy and law implemented by any organization on this planet is still being built out because those in power have agenda that has nothing to do with covid-19. Even if that agenda is as small as "I don't know, but I'm scared, so I'm going to put in a rule just in case." An agenda designed to eliminate

I agree with you except there is no excuse for coercion. Coercion implies someone else has a right over your body, which is God-given and sovereign. To allow someone to extort you to cooperate and take something into your body without your full consent is completely contrary to the Western understanding of human rights, as well as contrary to Natural rights given by God. We are free human beings, we do not belong, to anyone.

In the beginning of the vaccine mandates in the US, I got in a fight with my initially pro-vaxx PCP. I showed him the tube of Ivermectin horse paste I was slowly taking (I took several, with no side effects). He asked if I wasn't afraid of long-term effects; I told him "You've turned your body into a spike protein factory! YOU don't know the long-term effects of THAT!" He got so mad he abruptly left the office. But guess what? He has seen so many post-booster strokes/blood clots/myocarditis/neurological damage, that he himself won't have any more boosters!!!

Maybe they decided against a 3rd booster because the first 2 jabs + 2 boosters has already killed, injured or disabled millions of Australians! At some point when do you realize that you're destroying your citizens and the economy is being destroyed along with them!!!???
14 ^ | ˅ · Reply · Share ›

Frank Dudley → Clare Goldsberry · 13 days ago
Aren't destroying the economy, killing or maiming the population all part of the plan? Perhaps the real reason for their backing off with boosters is that the "vaccinated" have already been turned into ticking time bombs and of course the unvaccinated are now high unlikely to take the Covid needle, no matter how hard they push the poison.

We still have no access to Ivermectin here in Australia for Covid - doctors have already been deregistered for prescribing it, either as a prophylactic or as early treatment. My understanding is that our TGA (Therapeutic Goods Association) is supposed to be deliberating this month on whether to allow its reinstatement. Unfortunately there was a tiny unadvertised window of public feedback requested from the TGA on this matter. Awaiting the outcome.

I had a friend in France who ordered Ivermectin from India and she sent me a few 12 mg strips by addressing it to herself. Recently got more through her on an overseas trip to Europe. We took it prior and during the trip as a preventative. A lot of people know someone overseas who might be able to get it. Look at World Council for Health with guidelines for administering it. https://worldcouncilforheal....

Was there enough pushback from the Australians? Did the Aussie government wake up? Or did so many already take enough shots and boosters so as to meet the globalists' depopulation target numbers already? I think there's more question than answers.

I think the later is the case. People have (in general) taken enough shots for clots, cancers and infertility. The work has been done. Now we have the globalist stooges backing off a bit to give the illusion of scientific process and of listening to the people. Until you see some of these people dangling at the end of a rope then don't let your guard down.
